

Hunting on an Electric Utility Right of Way

Structures such as deer stands or shooting houses for hunting purposes may be dangerous if improperly located on or near electrical facilities. In most cases, Alabama Power will allow certain types of hunting structures to be placed on the outer edges of its rights of way. However, any temporary or permanent structures that are attached to a transmission tower or other power poles, block access or are near facilities, or are located underneath a high-voltage line, are prohibited and may be subject to immediate removal or relocation by Alabama Power.

If you have any questions about the proper placement of hunting structures on an Alabama Power right of way, please contact a right-of-way specialist at 1-877-891-2079. The safety of the public, our customers and employees is our No. 1 concern.
